Assistant Professor, Rankin School of Nursing, Faculty of Science
Part time Academic Instructor

The Rankin School of Nursing invites applications for a part-time Academic Instructor to teach N208 - 2 sections (3 credits each) of Foundations of Health and Health Systems to students on campus during the fall term of the 2024-2025 academic year.

We seek candidates with a broad understanding of the determinants of health and social justice. The focus of the course is on the Canadian health care system and concepts of person-centred care, primary health care, cultural competence, critical thinking, and population health promotion including person-centred teaching and learning. The successful candidate must be registered with the Nova Scotia College of Nursing (NSCN) prior to commencement of position. Candidates should have a doctoral degree (or be near completion) in Nursing or a related discipline. Also, candidates with a Master's degree who are enrolled in doctoral studies in Nursing or a related discipline will be considered. Preference will be given to individuals who have strong teaching and communication skills.

About the Rankin School of Nursing
The Rankin School of Nursing has almost a century history of undergraduate teaching excellence and currently holds accreditation jointly through the Canadian Association Schools of Nursing (CASN) and the Nova Scotia College of Nursing (NSCN). Graduates are known for their caring, competency, and commitment to the field. To learn more about the Rankin School of Nursing, St. Francis Xavier University, please visit our website at
